

PROFILE

I can communicate efficiently through different media, especially when delivering presentations and lectures, and write insightful articles. I take pride in creating attractive and self-sustaining projects. My knowledge in different languages and my experience abroad have made me extremely adaptable and able to work with quality, focused on the institution's needs and, at the same time, leaving my personal mark.

I'm currently interested in positions that will allow me to explore topics such as neuropsychology of education, Project-Based Learning and EdTech, Bilingual Education and Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL) as well as writing, revising, and editing ELT and General Education materials. I can effectively design and teach relevant and innovative professional development courses.
